In Brief

BBR* to cease large-print publication at end of FY22

Due to the worldwide paper shortage and declining subscriber numbers, this issue of Braille Book Review (BBR) will be the final issue available in large print. This will not affect production of other accessible versions of BBR. It will remain available in hardcopy braille, ebraille, and HTML.

- To subscribe to BBR in hardcopy braille, contact your cooperating network library. A list of email addresses and phone numbers is available on the final pages of this publication. They may also be found at www.loc.gov/nls/findyourlibrary.
- To view BBR in HTML, visit www.loc.gov/nls/bbr.
- To subscribe to BBR in ebraille, visit BARD, the Braille and Audio Reading Download service, or BARD Mobile. If you do not already have a BARD account, visit www.loc.gov/nls/braille-audio-reading-materials/bard-access for instructions on how to sign up.
 - Once logged into the BARD website, select Braille Book Review (braille) in the drop-down menu Magazines by Title and then select Subscribe to Braille Book Review (braille). Individual issues can also be downloaded.
 - Once logged into the BARD Mobile app, select Get Books, then Browse Magazines, then Braille Magazines, then Braille Book Review (braille). If you are using the app visually, tap the + symbol at the top of the screen to subscribe. If you are using Voiceover, this button is labeled Subscribe.

The same supply chain issues have also affected Talking Book Topics (TBT), which ceased large-print publication after the January–February 2022 issue. TBT remains available in HTML and PDF at www.loc.gov/nls/tbt and in audio from BARD, BARD Mobile, or via by-mail magazine on cartridge subscription. An abridged version of TBT is also included in the braille edition of BBR.

TBT* and BBR will begin to use publisher-provided book descriptions

NLS Collections Development staff have long written brief annotations, or descriptions, for all books produced in audio or braille by NLS. These annotations are what patrons are accustomed to seeing in BBR and TBT as well as on BARD. To provide richer and more extensive information for our patrons, the Collections Development Section has begun using publisher-provided book descriptions for the majority of items being added to the collection. This change to the process began with books acquired in May, and readers should expect to begin seeing them this fall. These longer descriptions often provide a more complete picture of the book. NLS hopes they will make it easier for patrons to identify titles of interest to them.

When publisher-provided book descriptions are available, NLS will use them verbatim. This means that book descriptions may reference other works or supplementary materials that are not available or contained in the NLS edition. The book descriptions are statements from the publisher and do not represent the position of the Library of Congress. NLS will, however, continue to provide rating taglines to help patrons identify books containing strong language or descriptions of sex and violence.

NLS seeks Kindle Fire users for BARD testing

NLS is working to develop an improved BARD Mobile app for the Kindle Fire and seeks patron volunteers to help test and provide feedback on experimental features and interfaces. All types of patrons are eligible, including low-vision users, multi-disabled users, digital braille readers, and VoiceView users.

Participating in beta testing requires no special technical expertise, only access to a Kindle Fire and familiarity with basic operation of the device. Supported Kindle Fire tablet device models include:

- Fire 7 (2019 - KFMUWI, 2022 - KFQUWI),
- Fire HD 8 (2018 - KFKAWI, 2020 - KFONWI)
- Fire HD 10 (2019 - KFMAWI, 2021 - KFTRWI)
- Fire HD 10 Plus (2021 - KFTRPWI)

Participants will be required to email feedback regularly to NLS. For more information, please contact Julia Kim (juliakim@loc.gov) with “Kindle Fire pilot” in the subject line.

NLS Patron Engagement Section virtual programs

The NLS Patron Engagement Section continues to host a virtual Monthly BARD review program on Zoom called The Many Faces of BARD. This program occurs the second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. Eastern. Each Review will last for one hour and will discuss a predetermined topic about a component of BARD usage or a specific BARD product. After the prepared training, patrons will have an opportunity to ask any questions that they may have regarding the topic of the evening or any other aspect of BARD.

To join a session, visit www.loc.gov/nls/about/services/many-faces-of-BARD on our website or call in by telephone at 1-669-254-5252 (meeting ID 161 116 1911).

The Patron Engagement Section will also be holding its next quarterly Patron Corner program on December 12. The topic will be Do You Hear What I Hear: NLS’s Music Collection Is Not Just for the Musician. For future information on upcoming Patron Engagement Section programs, visit www.loc.gov/nls/about/services.

Newsstand

The following announcements may be of interest to readers. The National Library Service for the Blind and Print Disabled reserves the right to publish announcements selectively, as space permits. The items mentioned below are not part of the NLS program, and their listings do not imply endorsement or support. Prices and details about listed items were correct at the time of compilation but are subject to change.

COVID tests available by mail

The US government has expanded its available free COVID-19 tests to include a brand that is more accessible to people who are blind or have low vision. Using these tests requires a Bluetooth-enabled Smartphone. For more information and to obtain tests, visit <https://acl.gov/covid19/tests-people-who-are-blind-or-have-low-vision> or call 800-232-0233.

Free app for blind video conferencing users

A recently released free app, Can You See Me, helps blind and low-vision users determine whether they are centered in the view of their webcam before joining video conference meetings. The app works on computers running Windows 7 through Windows 11. For more information, visit <https://canyouseeme.app/>

Envision App now free for everyone

Envision, an app that allows blind and low-vision users access text-based information and identify objects around them, is now free for all users. The app works on both iPhone and Android operating systems. For more information, visit www.letsenvision.com/blog/envision-app-now-free-for-everyone.

Books for Adults

All books listed in this issue of Talking Book Topics (TBT) have been distributed to cooperating libraries, though TBT does not include every book that has been produced by NLS. The complete collection, containing a wide range of fiction and nonfiction books, including biographies, classics, westerns, mysteries, and romances, can be found by visiting www.loc.gov/nls.

Registered users may also download all titles and magazines from the NLS Braille and Audio Reading Download (BARD) service at <https://nlsbard.loc.gov>. The free BARD Mobile app is available from the App Store, Google Play, and Amazon's Appstore for reading talking books on your personal smart phone or tablet. To learn more about the collection or to sign up for BARD, contact your local cooperating library. Regional library telephone numbers and email addresses are listed on the last pages of this magazine.

Books within the headings Adult Fiction and Adult Nonfiction are listed alphabetically by subject category, author last name, and title. For example the title War and Peace by Leo Tolstoy would be listed in Adult Fiction under the Classics subject category and by the last name Tolstoy. Note: A notice may appear immediately following the book description to indicate occurrences of violence, strong language, or descriptions of sex. The word "some" before any of these terms indicates an occasional or infrequent occurrence, as in "some strong language." Commercial audiobooks for which NLS does not have access to the print book may display the notice "unrated," which means that the book may or may not contain violence, strong language, or descriptions of sex.
